Interviewer: Sarah Mitchell, Chief Compliance Officer

[Recording begins]

SM: Mr. Okonkwo, you processed all payments to Nexus Trading Ltd. Can you walk me through your normal verification process?

DO: For vendor payments, I check that there's an approved invoice, a purchase order, and sign-off from the relevant manager.

SM: And for Nexus Trading specifically?

DO: Marcus... Mr. Chen told me it was a special project. He said normal procedures didn't apply because it was confidential executive work.

SM: Did you question this?

DO: I... I trusted him. He's been here longer than me. He's a senior manager.

SM: Mr. Okonkwo, we recovered emails where you discussed creating fake deliverables to cover these payments. Would you like to explain?

DO: [long pause] I knew something wasn't right. But Marcus said if I helped, there would be something in it for me. He mentioned a promotion, a bonus...

SM: Did you receive any payments from Marcus Chen or Victoria Blackwood?

DO: No. Nothing. Marcus kept saying 'soon' but nothing ever came.

SM: Are you willing to cooperate fully with this investigation?

DO: Yes. I'll tell you everything. I have more emails, text messages. Marcus introduced me to Victoria once - we met at a restaurant in Mayfair. The Wolseley, I think. It was on April 12, 2023.

SM: We'll need all of that information.
